placing some XCP BIDs down, anyone need a reminder of how to do xcp bids/asks and stuff

OK, well anyway...

if you go to fakerearewallet.com and get signed in on your xcp phrase.... from there you can view the marketplace (currently available or bids on cards for XCP or pepecash) from there you can look at the big board.

this lets you toggle from pepecash to xcp, I click the red xcp side and then scan down.

RAMENPEPE	1	27.50000000
FAKARESIST	10	25
TYSONFURY	1	25
RAMENPEPE	1	25
PEPEMOONSHOT	1	25
WHATAFAKE	1	25

really some good offers here...

Pro Tip:

When buying, place your buy order slightly higher than the lowest sell order and when selling, place your sell order slightly lower than the highest buy order. This will ensure your order matches.

then boom:

Once transaction happened:

also look at your xchain estimate now and notice how the token has a nice price attached in xchain obviously the more people that use the DEX, the higher the need for XCP, so setting a nice pattern for xcp and dex trading and being early there can be a nice setup.

IF your doing card for card swaps let the room know

You know....

you can also kind of do an auction on the dex...

although its a bit of a hack.

- * Wait for a busy time on chain
- * Put through an CARD/XCP order of low value.
- * use the shittiest most peasant TX known to humanity - use RPW and click custom fee... crank it down a ways.
- * now you have an order in the mempool that everyone can see....
- * it will take ages to finalise the TX
- * meanwhile your card that has been put up for cheap and advertised by yourself to everyone garners interest, but scampers.
- * they can place a bid using a normal TX fee that will come through quickly to put an order in that matches or goes above the price.
- * when your TX (the for sale card with the cheap TX) confirms it will go to the person who has bid the highest on the book.
